Hemorrhoids

External hemorrhoids are hemorrhoids that affect veins outside the anus. These hemorrhoids can cause bleeding, cracking, and itching. External hemorrhoids are usually found beneath the skin that surrounds the anus.

What causes hemorrhoids?

Hemorrhoids are most commonly caused by prolonged periods of sitting, straining to pass stools, and constipation. Hemorrhoids can also be caused by certain foods, examples being hot spices, such as chilli peppers and mustard, and drinks such as coffee (including decaffeinated coffee) and alcohol. Stress can also lead to hemorrhoids, and the weakening of supporting tissue as a result of ageing or genetics can be a factor, too. Hemorrhoids are also often associated with pregnancy. Obesity, chronic diarrhea and anal sex are linked to hemorrhoids, too. Between half and two thirds of the population will suffer from hemorrhoids at some stage in their life. Generally, the condition affects men and women almost equally, with people aged between 45 and 65 most commonly affected.

UnoPresto® Hemorrhoid gel and spray

A special combination of ingredients allows the Hemorrhoid gel to form a layer that has exceptional moisturising properties and an anti-inflammatory effect. Its efficacy is therefore primarily mechanical. The barrier layer protects the anal mucous membrane, repairing vascular tissues and restoring normal blood flow to the anus. The gel also has an antiinflammatory effect, reduces the risk of infection, can reduce the size of prolapsed hemorrhoids before they get too big, and has a soothing effect on the discomfort caused by hard stools. The gel barrier reduces irritation, swelling, itching, pain and burning sensations and stops irritated skin coming into contact with rectal discharge and faces, which can exacerbate the symptoms. UnoPresto® Hemorrhoid gel is a medical device class IIa, intended to treat external hemorrhoids, fissures and anal discomfort. The gel is available in a 20 ml tube and a 20 ml spray flacon.
